Thomas Moyse, Lucy Knight's husband, was a Sea Captain, as were also, his father and two brothers, they owned their own vessels, doing local and foreign trade, being gone sometimes for months, they often took their families along. Aunt Lucy went twice to India one of her children being born at Calcutta, India. After his early death at the age of 36, of T.B., she came with her parents to America.

The Moyes were a sea faring family, his father and 2 brothers once coming by chance from the 4 quarters of the world they met in the Thames river.

I have a vanity case that was formerly lined with pink satin. The moths tended to the inside, but I have the wooden outside in good condition, also 4 silver spoons, 1783 the date of Samuel Harris & Elizabeth Bolch marriage. 1810, the date of their daughter, Sarahs marriage to George Knight and 2 others not dated. These were brought to America when they immigrated.

Also a copy of a setticment previous to the marriage between Lucy Knight and Thomas Davis Moyse, a dozen pages of old English, very hard to read and understand. Dated October 19, 1835. Aunt Lucy told funny stories and catchy little songs. One song was about the Disobedient Chickens and another (prose) an ignorant Irishman was invited out to dinner, and a fox going after his supper. I have them.

After the death of John his sister was so lonesome they took Dennis for a playmate, and then Lorna. Residence-Ardnagreena, John Hill, Waterford, Ireland.

The White children had a pony and cart, He got tired of hauling the neighborhood children. When a child got in and took up the reins, he looked around, if it was one of the family he walked off, if it was not, he would not take a step.
This refers to the children of Ann Knight & George White.

George White, a Friend or Quaker, (as they are often called) of Waterford, Ireland, a very successful merchants and manufacturer, having two rope walks, was a Pharmacist and dealt in grain.

He bought heavily of grain, the price dropped. He lost $50,000.00 in one day. He called his creditors and said if you demand a settlement now I will sell and pay what I can, but I have been successful in the past, as you know, if you will trust me, I think I can make good, they did, he paid all, and lived to make another fortune.
My father Edward Knight said he was one of the nicest men he ever knew.

My dear Cousin:

Your letters of August 23rd, 24th and Sept. 24th, 1949, duly received.

I came to this country in June 1896 and after staying one month in Buenos Aires, went down South to stay with John Sewell and family until September, when I met an American who was coming up here to San Luis to start a new cattle ranch and as he wanted a companion and I wanted to get away from civilized parts to learn Spanish, I came out here on Sept. 20th, 1896 and started work on Estancia "La Portena". Where I worked for six then I started out on my own doing commission business and have been at that ever since. I live just outside of the village of Buena Esperanza and own the cattle yards where they hold cattle auctions monthly. I went home with my first wife, Jack, Eva and Robert in 1908. We, went first to England and Ireland to visit my wife's people then took a steamer at Queenstown for New York in June 1908. We only stayed three weeks in the U.S.A. and I only saw my Father for three days. We went back to Ireland where I left my family for nearly a year. My first wife, Ellen, died in 1916 and I married Maud on March 16th, 1918.

We live in the Southern part of the Province of San Luis, called the PAMPAS. From here East to the Atlantic coast it is very flat and treeless country, but from here the country is rolling to the West and covered with forest and scrub. This is good cattle country when it rains; but we suffer for long droughts and at present we are experiencing one of the very worst as it has rained very little for three years.

I am enclosing the data you asked for. When you have time I would like to have information of your family and I would appreciate very much a copy of that family tree you are having made up.
 Your affectionate cousin,
 Juan Lacy Clark

This record was originally compiled by Benjamin Angell Knight, with information down to 1890. His descendents have been brought down to date (1941) by his son, William Benjamin Knight and grandson William Benjamin Knight, Jr.

Earliest traceable roots go back into the line of Welsh Princes to 640 A.D. when the Dynasty was founded by Dyonwall Moelmerd, King of the Cymry. Later, the family spread to Ireland and England. Seven sons of George Knight and Sarah Harris Knight and the oldest daughter, Lucy Knight-Moyse, a widow and two daughters immigrated in 1848, to the new world, settling in Canada and the United States. Three sons, Harris, Benjamin and Alfred in Ontario about 90 miles northwest of Toronto, between Owen Sound and Meaford, where they had literally to hew their farms out of the wilderness.

In a letter to his brothers, Edward and Octavius, written on Christmas Day 1856, Benjamin Knight drew a plan of his 200 acre farm. Benjamin, while attending a meeting of the Society of Friends at New Market, met Ann E. Edwards and thereafter walked twice a year a distance of 100 miles to court her. They were married in 1851.

Ann Edwards antecedents are given; her father, James, was a brother of William Gaskill Edwards, whose daughter, Clara, in 1894 married Wm. Benjamin Knight, son of Benjamin Angell Knight. As his family grew he became concerned at the lack of proper education facilities, and in 1838 moved to a farm in Logan Co., Ohio, five miles east of Bellefontaine, near the village of Zanesfield.

Uncle Hall and Aunt Willa, as they were known to the neices and nephews on both sides, lived on the Knight farm in Jefferson Township, 5 miles east of Bellefontaine and their home was open to all of us. We were always welcome. We all loved to visit them but especially at butchering time in the fall, maply syrup time in the spring and harvesting time in the summer. The boys always maintained swimming holes and dams along the MadRiver and also used to camp in the sugar shed locaed in the big sugar woods, in the summer time.

Children: Bessie Elenore, Florence Ann, Edward Henry, and Harold Octavius.

Bessie Elenore Knight, born Jefferson Township, Logan County, Ohio, November 8, 1950.

Married: May 6, 1905, Bellefontaine, Ohio with Rufus H. Arnold, born January 8, 1876. Mr. Arnold is a druggist now. He owns and operates a drug store at Coshocton, Ohio. Bessie Elenore learned the watch making trade before she was married. Present address, 425 Locust Street, Coshocton, Ohio.

Virginia Ann Arnold, their only child, born February 15, 1915 at Bellefontaine, Ohio, graduated from Ohio Weslyn University, Delaware, Ohio, attended business school.

Married: James Edwin Davis, born January 5, 1910.

Florence Ann Knight, born Jefferson Township, Logan County, Ohio, August 20, 1882.

Married: November 16, 1904, Bellefontaine, Ohio, with Harry O. Schuyler, born August 12, 1880. Mr. Schuyler was a telegraph operator with the Big Four Railway Company and has advanced through several important and responsible positions with them. At present he is located in Indianapolis, 520 East 56th Street.

Edward Henry Knight, after he moved to Cincinnati, Ohio, met Maria Janet Richards, daughter of Elizabeth Dunn Richards and Jonathan Richards.

These young people in due time fell in love and wanted to get married, but Maria's mother, who was a widow, would not give her consent, not that she had anything against Edward, but did not want her daughter to marry, so Maria went to Dayton, Ohio by canal packet to talk things over with her uncle. He had her send for Edward so he could see what manner of man he was, and later gave his consent and on a later visit of Maria to her uncle's at Dayton she and Edward were married without her mother's consent or knowledge and then returned to Cincinnati, for her mother's forgiveness, which in due time was given and Mother Richard later loved her son dearly.

The following is the last letter written before their marriage.

Cincinnati, May 20

Dearest Ri.

I received thy letter this afternoon and ~~hasten~~ to reply to it, for there is nothing my dear Dovey that is so near my heart as thou art. I will mention, as thou art in so much trouble about me, that my sore throat is almost well, though it was quite severe at one time. By care and dieting I succeeded in getting the inflammation under.

With regard that all important matter, I am ready; have been for a long time, as regards my own feelings, could I have my untrammelled choice, but as I before observed, my love, business and other matters connected with the additional establishment that is rendered necessary by a wife. I have an engraving on hand which I must complete and furnish 200 copies by the 20th of next month (June). There is sufficient to keep me very hard at work in the meantime, and as the plate is contracted for, I must be up to time. I only mention this dear Ri, to account for what my friends and thyself might deem unnecessary haste, and a seemingly respectful behaviour on my part, but they must and will deal gently by me for I feel the responsibility I am about to undertake, and by God's help will neglect no suitable means of providing what is necessary. I need hardly assure them all how glad I shall be to come and spend a week or two with them at some future time, and not less would be my pleasure their return to the visit on their part to me, and I look forward to time as near at hand when I shall be able to welcome them any and all to our home, my dearest Ri.

Mr. Edmondson, has called on me several times. He gave an account of your family gathering, and I long to be acquainted with the other members of the family, whom I have not seen. I look forward to next week with great pleasure. This one is almost over and we shall be in the last week of our probation tomorrow.

I shall have my hands full in making preparations and in attending to my regular business-- -- a delightful task.

It is very stormy here. The lightening, as I write, is very vivid and the rain falling torments, as the newspapers say. About 7 o'clock, quite dusk, and supper time. I cannot see the lines and have hurriedly what is here. I hope thou wilt be able to read it. With love to you all, I remain, as ever,

Thy Edward

Edward, at the time of his marriage, was engaged with his brother George in operating a printing and engraving plant at Cincinnati.

On July 20, 1852, Samuel Knight and Octavius Knight purchased a farm of 103 acres in Logan County, Ohio, four miles east of Bellefontaine, Ohio, they moved on this farm with their father and Mother, George and Sarah Knight, their sister, Lucy Moyse and her daughter, Clara, October 4, 1854. Octavius sold his interest in this farm to his brother Edward Henry Knight, and Octavius with his father and mother, sister Lucy Moyse and her daughter Clara, moved back to Cincinnati.

Edward H., his wife and three daughters, Annie, Emma and Ella moved to the farm from Cincinnati. Samuel married Eliza Jane Antrim, August 29, 1845, whose father Daniel Antrim, owned an adjoining farm. The house on the farm was not large enough for the two growing families and it was agreed by the brothers that the first one who could raise two hundred cash would buy the other's interest. April 15, 1856, Edward bought Samuel's interest in the farm and Samuel with his wife moved to Cincinnati, where he was employed by his brother, George Henry Knight, who was then conducting business as Patent Attorney. Samuel remained there for several years and then moved to St. Louis, Mo., and opened an office as Patent Attorney for himself. February 22, 1861, Edward sold this farm to Benj. Plummer.

June 19, 1858, Edward H. bought 65 acres at the head of Marmon's Valley, east of Goshen Meeting House from James Kenton and moved his family to this new locality, in 1859 he purchased an adjoining 45 acres from Richard S. Freer. Edward and family moved to Washington D. C. in the year 1862, and on December 5, 1863, he sold the 45 acres to Samuel Hatcher and October 17, 1867, he sold the 65 acres to Alfred McAtee.

On October 18, 1867, he purchased from George Folsom, for $11000.00, 225.45 acres in Virginia Military Survey, laying on MadRiver, two miles north of Zanesfield, Ohio, and moved his family back to Ohio. He moved to Washington again later, but this farm was the home of his family until December 1882, when he purchased a home in Bellefontaine and moved into town where he died on January 22, 1883, and was buried in the Bellefontaine Cemetery. This farm remained in the family until April 1919.

BIOGRAPHY OF EDWARD HENRY KNIGHT
Written about 1907

I return herewith the letter of Smithsonian Institute asking for biographical facts regarding Uncle Edward Henry Knight, and give below, without particular effort to arrange the same in final form, a statement of such facts as I have been able to gather in the life of Edward Henry Knight. They are supplied by Miss Sarah A. Knight, Dr. Knight's youngest child, who still resides at Bellefontaine, Ohio, which was Dr. Knight's legal residence up to the time of his death in 1883. She informs me that these facts were jotted down during the life of her mother and at her mother's dictation, so that they can be relied upon as authentic.

Edward Henry Knight, A.M., L.L.D., was born in London, England, June 1, 1824, and died January 22, 1883, in Bellefontaine, Ohio, where his legal residence had been established some twenty-five years before and continuously maintained notwithstanding frequent absences incident to service in private and public enterprises which took him for protracted periods to Washington, D.C., Boston, Massachusetts, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Paris, France, and various places in England. His father was George Knight, who is understood to have come from Ireland to Southampton, England, where he owned and operated a cooperage plant and engaged in the importation of wines, and at about that time married Sarah Harris, daughter of Samuel Harris, whose ancestry is traced through fourteen generations back to Owen Glendower, of Wales.

Dr. Knight was educated in London, and there learned, first, the trade of steel plate engraving, at which he later worked for some time, and afterwards the profession of surgery, which he put to good use while serving in relief work after the Battle of the Wilderness in the American Civil War.

About the middle of the 40's, Dr. Knight, as did several of his brothers, migrated to America. He came to Cincinnati, where on April 5, 1851, he became a naturalized citizen of the United States and entered into loyal service to his adopted country and fellowman, which continued to the day of his death. On May 29, 1846, he married Maria Janet Richards (born June 26, 1826) of that City, the daughter of Jonathon Richards (who descended from Dr. Joseph Richards who came to Pennsylvania with William Penn in 1682) and Elizabeth Dunn (of English and Welsh ancestry) whose grandmother Elizabeth Willis Dunn came to Cincinnati, from Chester County, Pennsylvania, at an early date when travel was by wagon to Pittsburgh and thence on the Ohio River on the conventional raft of the day, with its built-on sleeping quarters and pile of earth upon which fires for cooking were maintained.

After arrival in the States, Dr. Knight studied law with Hon. Salmon P. Chase and was admitted to the bar, but practiced his profession only as an incident to his subsequent activities as a patent attorney.

Family records show his appointment as Notary Public in Logan County, Ohio, in 1859, his commission being signed by Mr. Chase.

The widow, Maria Richards Knight, survived Dr. Knight for many years. Their children were Annie (who died in 1927) and Ella and Emma (twins, now Mrs. James M. Campbell and Mrs C.D. Campbell), Harold E. and Sarah A., all of whom still survive.

Dr. Knight's activities varied widely. In 1870 he commenced the compilation of a volume entitled a "Library of Poetry and Song", a work of 1000 pages which issued under the name of William Cullen Bryant, who wrote the introduction to the work, and which has gone through several editions. He is known best for his incomparable work "Knight's American Mechanical Dictionary" (1876) and its supplement "Knight's New American Mechanical Dictionary" (1883), upon which he was working and had practically completed at the time of his death. This work is still a recognized authority on technical matters of a mechanical nature.

In the early 70's Dr. Knight served with distinction in the United States Patent Office, where he originated the system of classification of inventions long in vogue; provided a useful index of patents issued from the beginning of the Patent Office up to that time and introduced the system of purchasing copies of patents by coupon. He also served in the capacity of Principal Examiner for a time.

In 1866 Dr. Knight invented and procured U. S. and English patents on an improved form of steam governor, the principle of which was adopted and thereafter continued in use.

Dr. Knight was often called upon to serve in the capacity of "mechanical expert" in connection with inquiries relating to engineering subjects, being Chairman of Group 22, etc.

Dr. Knight was appointed by Rutherford B. Hayes, then president of the United States, as Honorary Commissioner to the International Industrial Exposition at Paris, France, in 1878, where he was one of the judges of exhibits in the Class of Machinery for which he was well fitted by experience and education as well as fluent command of the French language. On returning from Paris he was engaged in the Department of State, at Washington for some months in editing the report issued by the United States on the Paris Exposition. He personally did much to procure, in December of 1877, Congressional appropriation which made possible the American representation at the Paris Exposition and the publication of the aforesaid report.

While at Paris, Dr. Knight received from the French Government, in recognition of his work "American Mechanical Dictionary", the decoration "Chevalier of the Legion of Honor", of France. He was also presented with a medal for services at the Paris Exposition.

Other literary work of Dr. Knight included extensive writings on scientific and mechanical subjects, he being for a number of years a regular contributor to Atlantic Monthly, Harper's Monthly and Harper's Weekly. His writings included twelve papers on "Crude Inventions of the Centennial", with illustrations personally prepared by him; three papers entitled "First Century of the Republic" which were published by Harper's Monthly; a series of letters published in Atlantic Monthly entitled "Musical Instruments of the Various Nations Exhibited at Philadelphia Exposition", also illustrated by him; and a monologue on "Savage Weapons of the World" published by the report of the Smithsonian Institute. All of these literary efforts met with general commendation.

Dr. Knight was a member of several Scientific Societies both in America and Europe.

Mr. Thomas Donaldson, an associate judge at the Centennial and an associate commissioner at Paris, wrote of Dr. Knight at the time of his death;

"There recently died at Bellefontaine, Ohio at the age of fifty nine years, of Bright's Disease, one of the most useful men in research and literature that America has ever produced".

"He was a good citizen, a true friend, and an honest man".

Dr. Knight was Republican in politics, and while his forebears were all members of the Society of Friends or Quakers, he became a member of the Presbyterian Church and was a firm believer in God. He became a Mason and a member of the Order of Odd fellows in his early days at Cincinnati. He had a quick wit, a lively and cheerful disposition, was generous and ever ready to lend a help to the less fortunate.

In 1876 he received the degree of LL.D. from the State University of Iowa.

Dr. Knight's last illness, while primarily attributed to Bright's Disease, involved a complication which affected the brain and led to an autopsy, from which it developed that his brain weighed 64 ounces, which will readily be recognized as extraordinary since the average weight of the brain of Europeans is $49\frac{1}{2}$ ounces, and among the larger brains recorded by science are those of:

Agassiz	53.4	ounces
Lord Campbell	53.5	"
Daniel Webster	53.5	"
Abercrombie	63	"
Cuvier	64.5	"	, which alone exceeds that of Dr. Knight.

The enclosed photograph of Edward Henry Knight is believed to have been taken in 1876 when Dr. Knight was about 52 years of age.....about seven years before his death. It is one that his family considers to be his best likeness.

Compiled By Charlotte Allen-Sturge and her daughters
Elizabeth and Margaret.

The Belch family from whom Sarah Harris-Knight and Elizabeth Harris-Allen came is an ancient one, and Charlotte Allen-Sturge late of Goggsball Ennex, England possessed some records of it from the time of Henry 8th, though they are bare and meager. They owned property at Beconsin at Richamworth. in the county of Hartfordshire, and an estate named Hammonds in the same county, which remained in the family for several generations.

The first recorded Belch was living in 1552. When any of them first became Quakers is not known, but must have been at an early date of the Society, as (Charlotte Sturge) possess a manuscript copy of a sermon of William Penn, which was taken down by Thomas Belch, after hearing it, at Grace Church meeting, in White Hart Court, London; and also a letter to him, from his mother from which it would appear that she was not only a "Friend" but one of weighty character.

The first of the Harris family of whom we have any record, was John Harris, probably a Quaker, whose name appears as a signatory of a marriage certificate in 1665. About the same time there died Kimbrough Harris, a widow, on the 18th of November 1667, who was buried at Long Compton, Oxfordshire. She had a son, John, who went to America and "subsequently returned in habit and with the uruages of a sailor, so much altered that his mother took her knitting and went to the Red Lion to give him the meeting, did not recognize him as her son. It seems the aforesaid married a person by the name of Skey or Skay, settled at Long Compton, as a tailor. They had several children beside our immediate ancestor, who was a shoemaker. A son William Harris, went to America in or about 1674 and died there in 1715. In letters from him, mention is made of a sister Kimbrough and family, also a brother Edward, whether own brother, or husband of Kimbrough does not appear.

Note by John Harris, of Wapping.

Several others of the Harris family are mentioned in the family records. Samuel Harris was apparently the great grandson of the above mentioned Kimbrough Harris, through her son John, and was born September 22, 1741; in 1783 he married Elizabeth Belch, born 1754 and died 1883, fourth and youngest daughter of Thomas Belch, 1765, his widow carried on the business of corn dealer in which he engaged. When, however, Samuel Harris married her last remaining single daughter, he took over the business and continued in it for several years, until 1809, having realized a good fortune he retired, and lived at Brentford near London 'till his death in 1816.

Elizabeth Belch-Harris and sister Sarah Belch-Angell were of a lively and pleasing disposition, as were also the other two sisters. Elizabeth used to laugh when she told that her husband would jestingly say that she never told him she would marry him until she went to the Monthly Meeting and informed the Friends there. It was necessary at that time for the intending husband and wife to present themselves six times before a public assembly of Quakers in order that their consent to their marriage should be obtained, without which it could not be accomplished. This complicated proceeding was rendered needful, because at that time no marriage ceremony was strictly legal except such as was conducted according to the rites of the Established Church. It was therefore important that the marriage of Quakers should be as public as possible if they would carry it out in conformity with their conscientious convictions; and by their persistence in this course of action, year after year, for a long period, the Society of Friends, at length obtained from the Legislature its sanction for their proceedings and acknowledgement of their legality, a privilege which was in due time extended to other bodies of Dissenters. Thus did our ancestors pave the way for toleration in this and other respects, and fight boldly for liberty of conscience for themselves and the community at large.

It may be interesting in connection with the subject of early Quaker marriages, and as an illustration of the great care which was taken to make them public and to celebrate them in due form, even before the state had made them legal, to subjoin an exact copy of the certificate which was used on the occasion of the marriage of Joseph Belch with Ann Marsh in 1700. (The old fashion spelling has been retained, but the modern's has been substituted).

"Joseph Belch, of Newgate Street, London, youngest, son of George Belch, late of Charlywood, in the County of Hartford, yeoman, deceased, and Susana, his wife, him surviving, and Ann March, of Martin's Lane, London, daughter of Ralph Marsh late of Snow Hill, Pewterer, deceased. "Having Declared their intentions of taking each other in Marriage before several Public Meetings of the People of God called Quakers in London, according to the Good Order used by them, whose Proceedings therein, after a deliberate consideration thereof, (with regard unto the Righteous Law of God, and Example of His People Recorded in the Scriptures of Truth in that Case). were approved by the said Meetings, they appearing Clear of all Others, and having a consent of Parent and Relations concerned.

"now there are to certify All whom it may Concern, That for the full accomplishing of said Intentions, this Fifteenth day of the Eighth Month, called October, in the Year, according to the English Account, One Thousand Seven Hundred, They, the said Joseph Belch and Ann Marsh appeared in a Public Assembly of the aforesaid People, and others, met together for that end in their Public Meetingplace at Bull and Mouth in London and in a Solemn Manner, he the said Joseph Belch taking the said Ann Marsh by the Hand did openly declare as followeth; "Friends, in the fear of the Lord and in the presence of this Assembly whome I desire to be my witnesses I take this my dear friend, Ann Marsh, to be my wife, promissing through the Lord's assistance to be to her a loving and faithful Husband till it shall please the Lord by Death to Separate Us."

"And then and there in the said Assenbly the said Ann Marsh, did in like manner declare as followeth, "Friends in the fear of the Lord and in the presence of this Assembly whome I desire to be my witnesses, I take this my dear friend, Joseph Belch, to be my Husband promissing through the assistance of the Lord to be him a faithful and loving Wife until it shall please the Lord by Death to Separate Us".

"And the said Joseph Belch and Ann Marsh as a further Confirmation thereof, did then and there to these Presents set their Hands. And we whose names are hereunto Subscribed, being present among others, at the Solemnizing of the said Marriage and Subscription, in manner aforesaid, as Witnesses hereunto, have also to these Presents Subscribed our names, the Day and Year above mentioned.

"And many other relatives and friends"

Samuel Harris filled the position of an Elder in his own religious body, and was a charming and amiable man, the object of great veneration and love from his two daughters, Sarah, born June 26, 1787, who married Geo. Knight, born February 1786; and Elizabeth, born 1788, died 1816. They were the only children of the marriage, except one son who died in infancy, and were the delight of their parents, they were the delight of their parents, they were nearly of an age and devoted to each other, each had eleven children, three daughters and eight sons.

Samuel and Elizabeth Bolch-Harris lived at Rotcliff, not far from the river side. In this neighborhood in 1794 occurred the largest fire in London since 1666. It spread through many streets, moving along on both sides of the way, and consumed over 500 homes, rendering nearly 2000 people homeless and destroying vast quantities of property.

It originated from the boiling over of a cauldron of pitch. It spread rapidly and for a time irresistably, but happily it was in the day time, scarcely any lives were lost. It began at a considerable distance from their home and he spent his time assisting others when he found to his dismay that his own home was in danger, and tried to save some of his own belongings, but it was too late.

Mrs. Harris had been in the city on business and was about to return home, when a friend prevented her, saying that her house was already on fire. Late at night her husband appeared, black and smoky and wearied with his exertions. He assured her that the little girls were safe, having been carried away in a baker's cart without their bonnets to the home of a friend. They were changed several times as the fire encroached. They were then 8 and 6 years old. He was well insured and rebuilt the place in better style and lived there 'till he retired from business.

Some curious incidents were related as having happened during the alarm that prevailed, showing how apt people are to lose their presence of mind. Mrs. Harris was of a thrifty disposition, and had saved 80 golden guineas, which were locked in the drawer of the looking glass. Her husband knew that they were there and was anxious to save them, but not having the key could not open it. It would be thought that a man of his usually cool and sensible temperament would take up the looking glass itself, and carry it and the money off, together; but his common sense had so deserted him as he could not unlock the drawer, he left the guineas to their fate, and when found in the ruins, were a molten mass. One of their own servants exhibited similar want of thought. She had bought a new pair of stays and instead of carrying them away in her hand she changed for the new ones, although the danger was becoming greater every minute. A woman in the neighborhood threw her pot flowers into the street one by one.

The family were in easy circumstances and fond of travel. The continent of Europe was closed to the English during all those years, so that their rambles never extended beyond the sea. There was scarcely a county in England into which they did not go, not missing any considerable ruin or place of importance. They travelled in what was called chaise, a hooded vehicle on two wheels, drawn by one horse. They had one constructed to hold four persons, and with their fine chestnut horse, "Whitefoot" they made long and delightful excursions. On one of their summer trips they were away ten weeks, during which they drove over a thousand miles; and, to the satisfaction of his master, Whitefoot trotted up to the door on their return as fresh and in as good condition as the day he left.

The Harris party met with an occasional adventure by the way; as when once, on entering Birmingham, they involuntary fell into the train of a great public procession. Lord Nelson, after one of his great victories, was receiving a welcome from the inhabitants of that town, it was impossible to extricate the chaise from the line of carriages, so they were compelled to form a part of the procession. It was mortifying to the girls to appear in such a public spectacle, for the cocked hat and plain garb of the Quaker, and the peculiar bonnet of his wife, made them conspicuous among the throng.

Before quitting the history of the Harris ancestors, will give an incident of the times.

Samuel Harris was in the corn trade, and during the great war in the early part of this century (probably the war of 1812 with the United States) a strange and unaccountable delusion took hold of the common people, which induced them to believe that the then, very high price of bread was brought about by the Quakers in their transactions on the Corn Market.

It led to some difficulty with them, and it was scarcely safe for "Friends" to appear on the Corn Exchange; and as many of the Essex Quakers were either farmers or millers they were in the habit of going there every week. They ran some risk of unpleasant treatment, and a Friend from Chelmsford, named Joseph Marriage, was one day so set upon by the people, that he was obliged to go into a house near at hand, and there change his clothes, and by so doing escaped from the angry crowd.

John Belch
Sarah Colcork

Thomas married Mary Batt
Sarah died young.

Thomas Belch and Mary Batt-Belch, who died 1792, had four daughters.

Sarah, who married Benjamin Angell, in 1767. Benjamin Angell died in 1817. Sarah Belch-Angell died October 8, 1835, having no children.

Ann, married John Burgess in 1775, She died young, and of the three children who survived her, one only has left descendents, a family named Payne, of whom we have lost sight of entirely. A son John married Mary Midwinter.

Mary married John Barwick in 1780. She became a widow and left no children. She was a lively and charming person of a happy disposition and had many friends.

Elizabeth, the fourth and youngest married Samuel Harris, and had two daughters. Sarah who married George Knight and Elizabeth who married Charles Allen.

Benjamin Angell, the husband of Sarah Belch, came originally from Chippenham in Wiltshire. The family possessed houses in town, and an estate in the neighborhood, of between 100 to 200 acres, which, as his only brother died a bachelor, reverted eventually to him, and after his wife's death became the property of Sarah-Harris-Knight. He settled in London, and became a chintz printer and dyer, by which he amassed a large fortune; retiring from business, he purchased Gumley House and other property at Isleworth near Brentford, and there resided many years. He was a man of superior understanding and gentlemanly bearing, fond of reading and the society of intellectual men; he was always consistent to the society of Quakers in which he was born and educated, and was then what was called "a plain Friend".

His pretty and managing wife was of a lively temperament and brisk, active disposition. She was very small, with sharp petite features, and thin, rather high pitched voice, she was extremely neat and elegant in her dress, which was strictly that of a Quaker, made principally of silken materials of delicate light colors; so that no one could see her and not be attracted to the little lady like figure. Her sleeves reached as far as the elbows only, with white plaited cuffs fastened by ornamental buttons, and long gloves; she wore high heeled shoes; and sometimes in the house a spotless white apron. In later life she wore a small Friend's bonnet without strings, indoors as well as out, thinking it would counteract her deafness, of which she was afflicted in latter years. Their large house was kept in perfect order and its old fashioned furniture was in fine condition. The hall was paved in squares of white and black marble, with a wide oaken, parquet staircase, and ceiling highly painted by (it was said) Sir Godfrey Kneller, representing scenes from heathen mythology. The house had in former days been the abode of some of our noble families, built by a wealthy man named John Gumley; in the early part of the eighteenth century, his daughter inherited it from him, and through her marriage with a Marquis of Bach, it had passed into his hands, but of its history, 'till Benjamin Angell bought it, nothing is known. The neighborhood had changed, the Aristocrats had moved to more courtly precincts and Gumley House had lost its ancient prestige. Pleasure grounds of six acres surrounded it, laid out in one part in shrubbery and trees, another part in vegetable gardens, and in the center a considerable piece of water and green paddock. Sarah Angell did not encourage much company and they lived in a secluded life, scarcely compatible with their dwelling and property.

Before Benjamin Angell had thought of marriage with Sarah Belch he made an offer to another young lady, but tradition has not revealed who she was.

As she lived at a distance, he, singularly enough, borrowed a horse from his future mother-in-law. On the day appointed he came to get the horse, dressed in his best attire; Sarah, then a lively girl of nineteen, watched him depart on his errand of love-making; and full of fun and merriment, in allusion to the way in which he had prepared himself for the expedition, turned to her sisters and said, "I hope he won't succeed". Succeed he did not, and before very long transferred his attentions to the mirthful Sarah, who accepted the rejected Suitor, and they lived happily together for nearly fifty years.

As the Monthly Meetings which they attended were frequently held in towns at some distance they kept a carriage for some years, but she was so nervous, they disposed of it and used the Post Chaise. Perhaps she may be excused for her nervousness, when we remember how unsafe many of the highways of England were in those days. And, as they were sometimes compelled to cross the Notorious Hounslow Heath on their journeys they ran the risk of unpleasant adventures. They made their journeys in the daylight and for a long time escaped molestation.

One evening at the home of a friend in Uxbridge, the conversation turned to the subject of highway robbery, with some speculation as to what they would do in case of an attack.

Soon after they started on their homeward journey, a party of four in a closed carriage, when they reached the Heath (In Middlesex, about 15 miles west of London) and were driving across, the post chaise was stopped, a man at each door with face covered with black crepe, demanded their money and watches. A "Friend" named Sarah Rudd who was one of the party, when she saw them, cried out, "Here they are," and immediately prepared to yield up her purse. In talking over the affair afterwards she said in her droll way, that the robber must have been a gentlemen as he had such a soft hand.

Sarah Angell lived to be ninety years old, and for the last three or four years remained entirely in bed. Extreme deafness made communication extremely difficult and her mind lost much of its clearness and power. At the same time there was, in some ways a singular acuteness, which at times approached almost to a spirit of divination. She had as companion and caretaker a middle aged "Friend", a quiet gentle person. These communications would sometimes take place at night, when all was still and the outer world entirely shut out.

It happened on one occasion that George Knight was there, all the family had retired. In the middle of the night the old lady woke suddenly and exclaimed, "It's a very odd thing, a very odd thing indeed!" I never heard of such a thing! People washing their feet in the middle of the night". The attendant related the circumstance next morning at breakfast, "Well", said George Knight, "it is a curious coincidence that I was very hot and could not sleep, and I did get out of bed and wash my feet".

There was something very strange in these instances of what may be called "Second sight" and they happened sufficiently often to become a sort of by-word in the household.

From the Parish Registrar, North Leigh, Oxfordshire, England, we find Joseph Richards and Agnes --, the date of her burial is March 31, 1608, their son William, was baptized May 20, 1586, his son Joseph Richards, M.D. came to America in 1682 from New Gate, Oxfordshire, England, having purchased land of William Penn, before he came, as did also his son Joseph in February 1681. I have a blue print of that purchase prepared by Joseph T. Richards, Chief Engineer, Maintenance of Way, at the Penns. R.R.

And as my sister is inclined,
to bid to single life adieu,
May her dear Edward, in her find,
A faithful partner, dear and true.
A partner kind to sooth his care
To sooth the sorrows of his breast
A sparton dear, his joys to share
May Ruth and Edward, both be blest.

Jonathon was a very delicate child, his parents belonged to the Friends or Quaker Church, who do not practice infant baptism, their neighbor was a Catholic family, and they were very good friends. The Catholic family was very much concerned about the lack of baptism, one day they asked if they could take the baby for a ride, the mother willingly consented as she knew he would have the best of care, in feeding him, she found a wafer in his mouth. They had taken him to the Priest and had him christened, the parents said that was all right, it was done in love for the little fellow.

Edward Edmondson was a noted artist, several of his paintings are in the University Museum, Columbus, Ohio, donated by his niece Hannah J. Biddlecome, Columbus, Ohio.

Eliza Jane Edmondson married George Spence in 1855, a well known lawyer. Their home was in Springfield, Ohio. Mrs. Spence was a well known in Springfield, and was an authority on botanical subjects. She also spent considerable time in Genealogical research. Her Herbarium is very large and complete. Several new plants found by her in the swamps and bogs of Ohio, have been named in her honor. Her Herbarium, which is almost world wide is now in the Museum State University, Columbus, Ohio. She is a sister of Edward Edmondson, noted artist.

George Gill, my husband, is an attorney. Francis had four years of college. Two at Santa Barbara, and two at Fresno State. She went to Honolulu after her college graduation as a secretary and met her husband there. Kenneth had three years of college in Los Angeles and at present is attending the University of Chicago, with medicine and brain surgery as the ultimate.

My father George was a great lover of nature as was his mother. Did you know they made a stage coach trip from Santa Barbara to Yosemite in the early 1880's. They used to tell a story on Grandmother Spence on that trip. The entire party had arisen before dawn to view the famed Mirror Lake and Grandmother disturbed the entire mirror by climbing out to get some new type of lily she spotted on the water and had the eyes of the entire crowd for a time.

Father covered almost the entire country, from north to south and then Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, Arizona, Nevada and these trips were always camping trips, for he always felt the beauty spots of the world were off the beaten tracks.

First I must say that all of the boys (old enough) were in the army, Edward, Jr., aircorps. Elizabeth's husband William, Army. Frances husband Richard, Army, and Kenneth, my son, Navy, George T. was in Alaska most of the time seeing some little action there and my son was the only one unfortunate enough to be in six major battles and fortunate enough to escape uninjured.

Edward E. Spence (my brother) was a Civil Engineer and lived all of his married life in Beverly Hills, California, where he served 27 years on the city council, and 15 years as Mayor of Beverly Hills, and died while still holding that office. He was always very active in athletics, bowling, handball, baseball & etc. His wife Lorena was from Texas.

Charlotte had five years of college. Two at Pomona College, two at U.S.C. and one at U.S.C. Library School and she is now in the University of Los Angeles Library in the research department. Edward Jr, had 3 years of college, at University of Southern Calif, - was - and is now back taking up veterinary schooling.

Nancy had two years at University of Southern California and married.

Elizabeth married right of high school.

George Jr, after high school worked for his father, and at present is with a Dairy in Los Angeles. His wife Margaret was from Utah.

George Spence (my brother) has been a building contractor for years. He has been quite successful. He is quite a lumberer.

My husband and I have traveled visiting all four corners of the United States and many of the important places throughout the states and we also took a trip around the world.

I studied music for several years and had a church position as soprano soloist for several years. My children both had music.

I am 58 years old, but still lead a very active life, being on the Tulare Civic Music Board, a council member on the Childrens Home Society of Los Angeles. I often help some friends of mine, who have the really nice jewelry store, whenever they need anyone in the store, which is several times a week. I love meeting the public and just thoroughly enjoy being downtown. My husband does not like to have me work, but after the children were gone, I was lonely at home and getting with people has been a God send.

Sincerely

Edith Gill

"I have sweet thoughts of thee"
 They come around me, like the coice of song;
 They come like birds that to the South belong,
 And wear a gayer wing and brighter crest,
 Than those that on the roof tree build their nest
 They come more tender, beautiful and bright,
 Than any thoughts that others can excite.
 They tell me gentle tales of thee and thine,
 Of gems of truth that in thy spirit shine
 Of goodness, purity and holy zeal
 That can for others earnest pity feel;
 Of all things beautiful in soul and heart
 And such they tell me, "dearest that, thou art".

Ann Richards married Oliver Martin, very much her senior, he did not live many years. She was a physician in inclination and ability, she said God had put the healing herbs here and it was our duty to find them. She was ever searching in nature, and in books for knowledge. She made her home in our family, my mother, Maria Richards-Knight, was her neice. We lived at that time not far from Bellefontaine, Ohio. There was an epidemic of scarlet fever and diptheria. Her patients made a better recovery than any of the M.D.'s so much so that one came to ask what she did, for he was grieved at the terrible loss, he followed her instructions, and was gratified that more of his patient's recovered.

The repetition of a name is filial, but hard on a genealogist.

As has been noticed in another place, the three first born in the New World were men named Joseph and the next three were, Jonathon, the second Jonathon married Hannah Baldwin, their children were, John Ruth, Ann, Mary, Jonathon and Samuel. They moved to Cincinnati from Philadelphia, Pa., with the exceptions of John, who was well established on 3rd Street as a Publisher and Book binder. As the business grew he needed more space, as none of the neighbors were willing to sell, he bought on a parallel street a lot that backed up to his and built a bridge connecting the second stories.

He married Ann Bartlett. They had no children of their own, but raised 17, giving them a good home, an education and trade, fitting them to take their places in the world. He died in 1865, Mrs. Richards out lived him several years.

As the years rolled by there had been deaths in the family, his brother Jonathon had died of Quincy, leaving his wife, Elizabeth Dunn-Latty and two little girls, Maria & Elizabeth. On a visit to Cincinnati, Elizabeth then a bright, cheerful, little girl, took a great fancy to Uncle John and Aunt Ann and wanted to go home with them for a visit. She thoroughly enjoyed the trip over the mountains in the stage coach and the trip to Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Oct. 11, 1835

Dear Sister - You have no doubt received the painful intelligence of the death of your dear daughter Elizabeth Richards before this time. I wrote Sister Mary on the morning of her decease, not feeling able to write directly to yourself on the painful subject. I feel it a duty incumbent on me at this time to write you a few lines, not with a view of assuaging your grief, but for your satisfaction, in giving a more detailed account of her illness than was contained in the letter of my sister. Elizabeth arose on Sunday morning the 27th of September, somewhat unwell attended with a little hoarseness and slight fever, but not much unwell. She was about all day up and down, ~~Anne~~ having made her a little bed in the sitting room.

On Monday, she not being any better, a physician, Dr. Noble, was called in. He seemed to think but light of her illness, ordered some medicine, and called next morning when he stated that she was no worse, calling in the afternoon, he pronounced her on the recovery, but between that and mid-night a sudden change for the worse took place. The Dr. was sent for, but being out on professional business another physician was called, who pronounced her case hopeless. However all was done that could be done by human aid, but all to no effect, and she died between 1 and 2 o'clock on the morning of September 30th, like an infant falling asleep, so gentle was her departure. She was sensible till a few minutes before her death, for when asked by the physician in attendance to put out her tongue, she did so, and in answer to a question by Anne, as to whether she knew her she said yes and gently fell asleep in death a few minutes after. She was endeared to us all and in her death we are deprived of a source of the greatest gratification the pleasing anticipations of her future happiness and well being in this life, in after years, and an ornament to her sex, but she has been called from us, when least expected, and we are assured that our loss is her eternal gain, for Christ has said "suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven", a reflection at once consoling and gratifying to the Christian parents. For although hard to part with their dear offspring, yet we are well aware that they escape a world of care, and are certain of a never ending state of happiness in the life to come. She was buried on Thursday afternoon in Ronaldson's burying ground, attended by a respectable number of friends and acquaintances

Enclosed is a lock of her hair, and her locket which will serve as mementoes of her that was dear to you in life, and whose body now lies low in the last resting place of all the sons and daughters of humanity, the cold, damp grave, and we trust her spirit has ascended on high, to the arms of her Creator, in the mansions of eternal bliss, there to reap the rich fruition of a never ending joy, through the countless ages of eternity. Oh! that we may so live, as to be prepared to join her when time shall be no more to us, in this world, Sorrow not, therefore, as one without hope, for we see daily the departure of some of the human race, and we are taught that here we have us sure resting place, but are only sojourners, on our road to an everlasting home, "where the wicked cease from troubling, and the weary are at rest".

Anne joins me in kind love to you

From your sorrowing kinsman

BALDWIN

The first Baldwin died on the way over and was buried at sea.

Thomas Baldwin of Oxfordshire, England, came to New Jersey and owned land as early as 1680. He had two brothers, John and Francis. John was a merchants in Chester County, Pa., and died in 1731; Francis died the same year. Thomas bought land in Chester township in 1684 (Gilbert Coke, West Chester, Pa. 1885). June 1897, E. Jane Spence, Springfield, Ohio, learned from C.C. Baldwin's book on "Baldwin Genealogy" that the seat of most of the American Baldwins is at Dundridge, England. Sir John Baldwin is mentioned in the 15th century.

Thomas Baldwin was born in Oxfordshire England. Baldwin is an old name and quite common as early as the conquest of England. There was a Baldwin in England as early as 672.

The Baldwins were Earls of Flanders. One Baldwin was a co-temporary with Alfred the Great. His son married the daughter of Alfred the Great. Another one whose daughter married William the Conqueror, her name was Matilda Baldwin.

There were Baldwins Earls of Devonshire, another Baldwin was Arch Bishop of Canterbury. A sister of Matilda married a brother of the King of England, Harold 1066.

John Baldwin was an Englishman, solid dressed in the old fashioned style knee pants and long stockings. Had solid silver buckles and buttons with initials engraved on them. Had all the English traits of Character. Was well off, owned a farm of about 800 acres at London Grove, Chester County, Pa.

Rola was a St. Clair, Wm. the Conqueror was a St. Clair, his wife Matilda was a daughter of Baldwin and Elenor St. Clair. Then Odard the nephew of Earl of Chesta, afterwards made Lord De Dutton of Dutton, who was a St. Clair was grand nephew of Wm. the Conqueror, who created him Lord de Dutton. Our migrat ancestors John Dutton came to America from England within five miles of the Dutton estate. If, as claimed by Dutton Geneology, we descended from Lord de Dutton, then we also descend from the St. Clairs also. No family in Europe beneath the rank of Royalty boasts of higher antiquity a nobler illustration or more romantic interest than that of St. Clair. Many Geneoligists hint and more at the statement that there is no family on earth, greater, historically, than the St. Clairs--that they have always been not only near to royalty but royal, that for 200 years those of the name sat upon the throne of England and at some time others of the race were upon the throne of Norway-Sweden, Denmark, Trone, German, Sicily, Scotland, Wales and Ireland. This is a wide sweep to be sure, but seems well founded.

A family reunion of the St. Clairs takes place annually at Perry, Ohio. Fact, fancy and legendary love abounds and are kept alive at these family reunions.

Richard Barndrd and wife Frances came from near Sheffield, England, about 1682 and settled in Middletown township, now Delaware County, Pa., in 1696, moved to Aston, where he died in 1698.

John Dutton came from Overton, Flint County, Wales, and purchased land May 22, 1682 at Aston, Delaware County. He was a Quaker before he left Wales. Overton, Wales was the original seat of the Duttons, where the Sir name Dutton was first created for Odard; nephew of Earl of Chester, Hugh Lupur, and grand nephew of William the Conqueror. Odard was created Lord of Dutton.

Richard Bernard. Godfrey Barnard was buried at Wanford in Yorkshire England A.D. 1240 and all the Barnards trace their descent to him.

Christopher Vane son of Sir Henry Vane trent at Lord Bernard Castle or Historical ruin covering seven acres in Co. Durham founded about 1180 by Barnard Baliol, an ancestor of John Baliol Kind of Scotland, who was born in 1259. Scotts Poem Rokely has added much to the romantic interest of the revered pile of stone. By one of the strange freaks of history some of the Barnard descendants bring to it the strain of the Royal Stuarts of Scotland.

Radcliff College was founded by Jean Barnard who married John Radcliff.

John Dutton came from Overton, Chester Co., purchased land in 1682, in Aston township, that is now Delaware County. He was a Quaker before leaving England. Overton, Cheshire Co., England in the township of Over lies about five miles nearly south of ancient family seat of Dutton. Runs back to the first ancestor of Norman was Rolla, the Petty Prince or Chieftain in Denmark year 912, married daughter of Charles, King of France, made the first Duke of Normandy, his son was Duke William 1st., 3rd generation. Duke Richard 1st, Earl of England, William the 4th generation. Earl of England, William 6th generation. Earl of England, Robert, 5th generation. Odard or Hudart 7th generation. ~~Came~~ came over to England with William the Conqueror. He was their great uncle.

Odard was made Lord of Dutton. He owned Dutton. He held Astor (an estate) and Weston, his son had Kekick.

Odard or Huddards Sword is at this day 1665 in the custody of the Lady Elinour Viscountess Kilmoruy, sole daughter and heir to Thomas Dutton, late of Dutton, whose sword for many years past has been preserved and passed from heir to heir as an heirloom, by the name of Hudard sword and so at this date is by tradition received and recalled.

Name Dutton called De Dutton part of time.

Sir Thomas Dutton lived A.D. 1249. He built the Chapel at the Manor House at Dutton. Hugh Dutton of Dutton built Possey Chapel about 1236 in Runcome, Paris.

Township Dutton lies about five miles east of Fordsham on the River Wever in Cheshire, England. This township in the ancient record of Domesday book is written Duntune. Dun. in the old Saxon language signified a hill for which we now use the word down, so that Duntune signifies the town upon a hill or down. Now contracted to Dutton. From this town did the Ancient family of Duttons assume their Sir names for Odard being seated here in the Conqueror's time is posterity, were six named De Dutton from the place of their residence where they have continued ever since to this present 1666. A family of great worth and Antiquity almost a constant succession of Knights.

At the end of the 9th century, lived Rolla, a petty prince or Chieftain in Denmark, whose valor and ability soon engaged the attention of his countrymen. He was exposed in his youth to the jealousy of the King of Denmark. After the murder of his brother, and his bravest officers forced him to fly to safety into Scandinavia. Here many of his ancient subjects inticed by affection for the Prince, partly and partly by the apprehensions of the Danish Monarch, were ready to follow him in any enterprize. He gathered an army composed of Norwegians, Sweds, Frisians and one and others fond of adventure, they made raids upon the coast of France during the reign of usurper Redden and also of Chas. a simple and weak prince. He became so formidable that Chas. finally for peace, gave him a large territory, also his daughter Gisla in marriage to bind him still closer to his interest, also donated another large tract of land or territory, which became known as Normandy and Rolla was the 1st Duke of Normandy.

Nigel, Geoffrey, Odard, Edard, Howswain, Wolfarth, these six brothers accompanied by their Uncle Hugh Lupus, into England, in the time of William the Conqueror, their Great Uncle, and on the establishment of the Norman power has varied estates and honors conferred upon them..Nigel was created Baron of Hutton and constable of Sheshire.

Godfrey was Lord of Stopford

Odard, Lord of Dutton - our ancestor

Edard, Lord of Haselwell

Howswain, Lord of Shrigley and Wlofarth Lord of Hutton.

Orard, the 3rd son, was our ancestor of the Duttons now extinct, in the male line, the Barons of Chedill also extinct and the Worbentons.

Aunt Jane has not yet gotten Yvon Viscount of Constontim(father of Odard), straightened out, they have so many different titles so it might be that Yvron Viscount of Contintin (in Normandy) may be the same person who is called Earl of En. William who married Jeanne Lupus, sister and neice of the conquerer.

What has been studied out by Aunt Jane Spence and put on this paper gives a pretty good idea of our ancestry back of the time the Sirname Dutton was given Odard.

From this town of Dutton did the ancient family of Dutton assume their sir name for Odard being seated here during the Conquerer's time. His posterity were Sir named Dutton from the place of their residence where they have continued ever since to the present 1666, or about 600 years.

A family of great worth and antiquity and as it were a sucession of Knights, but now alas ready to change the name being devoled by a daughter and heir unto Lord Garard of Gerard-Bromly Stopford or Stofford shire.

Dutton book suffered great religious persecutions.

John Dutton among the rest so must have concluded for this reason to leave England.

John Dutton, our ancestor, who came to America, lived at Overton Chesire, only 5 miles from the ancient seat of Dutton. So far as we know he came over in 1682. He purchased land at Astin, Township, Pa.

This name Austin was brought over from England, which confirms something, the Duttons did not change to Lord Gerard until 1666 only 16 years before our ancestor John Dutton came to America. This brings American Duttons and English Duttons close.

The Barnards came over in the time of William the Conquerer, Norman Origin.

Col. William Barnard married a grand daughter of Cromwell. He was her second husband. b 1634. Sir John Barnard of Abington North Hampton married a grand daughter of Shakespere.

Lady Ann Radcliff Mowlson founded the first scholarship at Harvard College, 1643. She was the grand daughter of Jean Barnard. Richard Barnard came from Normandy originally. Their Manor House there was called Bothe Barnard.

Richard Barnard came from Sheffield England about 1682 or 3 and settled in Middletown township Deleware County about 1696, then moved to Aston Township, Pa. They were Quakers. Robert Southey of Dorchester, England, was among the first to purchase land of William Penn, in 1686, in Chester Township, now Delaware County, Pa.

John Baldwin and Ruth Way were cousins.

John Hannum settled in Concord Townshop then in Delaware County, Pa. There was a family by the name of Hannum in the neighborhood of Boston about 1630.

Robert Way was in this country as early as 1686. Lived in Concord Township, Chester Co., Pa. 1711 moved to Kermit Township. Is supposed to be Welsh. Robert Way, our ancestor was without doubt a grandson of Henry Way, the puritan. Henry Way came from Dorchester, England, in 1625, and settled in Dorchester, Lass.

It was the custom at that time, when a girl attained the age of 18, she chose a side saddle or silver tea spoons, she evidently chose the latter for the great neice, the grand daughter, of her sister Mary, Ann Richards Martin, was the possessor of one. It has LW on the handle, who gave it to her great neice Sarah A. Knight, who gave it to her nephew Harold F. Campbell. The spoon now, 1951, is 193 years old.

When Abraham Darlington came from Darnhill Cheshire, England, to Chester County, Pa., in 1711, (see under 86 American Darlingtons in England Chapter (page 33 - Abraham baptized March 13, 1686 and 90 at White Gate. This is the American Immigrant -- Dr. W. Darlington stated in the Clar book of 1853 and it is generally believed that Abraham Darlington came to Pa. in 1711, but he was married then and must have been in this country sometime before. English Darlingtons evidently were not Friends but belonged to the Church of England. The Port of Church Warden was frequently held by the family of Whitegate or Mother Darlington for instance held this office in 1603 and Job Darlington Warden in 1660 and Job Darlington was Church Warden in 1700 and Richard in 1708. The last named Richard was the cousin Richard of the 18th Century. After he removed to the Parish of Acton, the office continued from time to time in the family but cannot give dates. John Darlington came to America with his brother Abraham or after (Page 14, Our English Kith and Kin). This chapter completed by Edward L. Heydecker of New York from dates gathered by Thomas Darlington of London, England, and of Hapdunor Abeyes With, Wales, who attended our reunion and centennial gathering in 1894. Darlington is a Saxon name, the earliest mention of a Darlington being found in 1282, when the son of John Darlington who was Arch Bishop of Dublin, Ireland, but as celebrity on the part of Priests, was the rule in the Roman Catholic Church. Whence he came or who were his kindred is not known. The earliest Darlington will preserved at Cheshire is dated 1568. From wills it appears that in the latter part of the 16th century there lived in the Parish of White Gate Cheshire six brothers, Edmund, Thomas, Robert, John, Richard, Rondel, probably sons of Richard Darlington, of Brookhouse.

Edmund, the eldest, was born about 1550. It is supposed that Richard Darlington is the name of that early ancestor of the Darlington line. Margaret Darlington who married Rondel in 1594 was his cousin, it seems.

Children of John Darlington of White Gate: Job is the Ancestor of the American Line. At the age of 19, Job married in 1616 his cousin Elizabeth, age 16, daughter of Thomas Darlington of Brookhouse. He, Job, is a great grandfather of the American Immigrants (Abraham and John).

A note in the Dutton Book Pem Dutton says, Robert Taylor was styled of "Little leyh on the old deed white his wife and children were said to have come from Chatterswick, which latter place was a small hamlet in little Leyh and formally owned by Dutton.

Bayard T aylor of Cheshire Co., widely known travelor and author, is descended from Robert Taylor in the following line. Robert, Isaac, Abraham, Joh, Joseph, Bayard.
It is supposed the Taylors came over with the Duttons.

One of the most popular books at the Warder Public Library is "The Story of Kennett", by Bayard Taylor. It is one of the two works of fiction written by that greatest if American travelors, if indeed, a book which follows so closely the events which actually transpired in the lives of real characters may be called a work of fiction.

"The Story of Kennett" is an historical novel, and resembles S. Weir Mitchell's Hugh Wynn, in that it is a revolutionary tale and the scene is laid near Philadelphia.

Dr. Mitchell's novel is of unusual interest because many of the places which are used as a setting for his incidents are still in existence.

"The Story of Kennett" is more interesting because, although must of the scenes have been wiped out in the growth of the Quaker City, the descendants of the real characters are living and one of them is living in Springfield.

She is Mrs. Jane Spence, of 71 East High street. She is the line of descent.

Martha Dean, heroine of "The Story of Kennett" was in real life, Ruth Baldwin, Ruth married Benjamin Taylor in Kennett Square, Chester County, Pa., March 3, 1808.

It is said that the man she married was represented in the story by Gilbert Potter. This woman was the great aunt of Mrs. Spence, who has many articles which belonged to her.

Among her heirlooms there is a little silver cream pitcher which belonged to John Baldwin, Ruth's father. There is a date inscribed on the pitcher, but it was put there by Mrs. Spence. There are the initials of John Baldwin and the trade mark of the firm who made it. It is of English make, and is possibly several hundred years old.

Elizabeth Willis - Pryor - Dunn

Elizabeth Willis was married and had three children before she married Samuel Dunn. Her first husband and two children were killed by the Indians.

Mr. Pryor and some neighbors were taking grain to a mill near Hamilton when they were murdered and scalped. They were making the trip by flat boat on the Miami River. The home was near White Station. At this same time, Mrs. Pryor had the oldest child with her and was looking for the cows; all stock ran wild in the forest at that time. When she saw the Indians she started for the cabin, but they were there before her, and she saw them kill the two little ones. She swam the Miami with the child on her back, with arrows flying thick around her, and reached the Block House in safety. That child afterwards met with an accidental death by falling off a log.

She was tall and straight with black hair and eyes, with a strong personality. She was an expert with the rifle, and took her place along with the defenders.

In after years she could never bear the sight of an Indian, and if any of the family saw any in town (Cincinnati) they told her, and she would not go to the front windows till they had left town. She said it took all of her Christian Charity to Forgive, and the sight of them brought back all the old horror, and grief.

She had a cheerful lively disposition.

She knew the place where Cincinnati now is, before there was a brick house there. Her body, with her family, lies in Duck Creek Burying Ground, near Pleasant Ridge, northwest of Cincin.

Elizabeth Dunn belonged to what was then called the Handshell Baptist. They were close communicatest of the strictest varity. Her daughter belonged to what was then termed the Campbellites and now known as the Christian Church. When the bread & wine were served, the minister said anyone in good standing in their church was welcome, she partook, not long after she was called to meet the session, and severely reprimanded. She listened quietly and then said "Give me my letter, I would rather be with my daughter, Elizabeth than here". They seemed to have forgotten, if they ever knew, that she swam the Miami river with her son on her back, with arrows flying fast around them to gain the safety of the Block House. She was an expert with the rifle, hardly one to be frightened by a few obstinate old men. Some one asked what error had she committed? The Act of taking communion in an alien Church.

The following Hymn was used at her funeral, and many of her descendants.

When languor and disease invade
This trembling house of clay
'Tis sweet to look beyond my pain;
And long to fly away.

Sweet to look inward, and attend,
The whispers of his love;
Sweet to look upward

Sweet on his faithfulness to rest,
Whose love can never end;
Sweet on his covenant of grace
For, all things to depend.

Sweet, in the confidence of faith,
To trust his firm decrees
Sweet to lie passive in His hands,
And know no will but His.

If such the sweetness of the streams,
What must the fountaine be,
Where saints and angels draw their bliss,
Immediately from Thee.

The Dunn's once owned land where the Hamilton County Poor House now stands. Jeremiah Dunn owned the land before the Miami Canal was dug, and was much displeased to have his farm divided. It was a common thing to chain the horses to the cabin at night to keep the Indians from stealing them.

Soon after the Civil War, several of the family, having seen service, sold out and moved to Wichita, Kansas, where they have become very prosperous.

In one family there are twin sons. They with a brother have a general store, of three divisions, the twins having the end ones. A traveling man was talking to them one day and remarked they looked so near of an age. The brother spoke up and said, "they are twins and I am between them".

Samuel Dunn had brothers.

John Dunn settled at Rising Sun, Indiana. He has descendents there.

William settled in Missouri.
